Thank you, Tom,

I've sent out to others for their quick review. The attached draft looks pretty darn good to me, and has the same requirements that I was expecting per rule. I checked with our latest published comprehensive annual financial report and planners to confirm some of the last paragraph in the facility description portion of permit. Here's the revised paragraph:

The Miami-Dade Water and Sewer Department is considered the largest public water utility in the Southeast United States, providing direct services to approximately 420,000 retail customers. Additionally, wholesale water and/or wastewater service is provided to 18 municipalities within Miami-Dade County. Miami-Dade Water and Sewer Department's current service population of 2.3 million is expected to reach the 2.8 million mark by the year 2030.

I assume that all of the facilities RICE units now regulated under NESHAP (previously unregulated insignificant) can be added with application to add these new units after completion of construction to the operating permit.
