Description of Reasonable Precautions

Below, or as an attachment to this form, provide details of all types of reasonable precautions to be used to prevent unconfined emissions at the facility. Most of the facility is paved with both concrete and asphalt. When sand or any other debris is accumulated on the paved surfaces it is removed by sweeping the area and removing the accumulation properly. The only area that is not paved is where the sand stock piles are located. This area is kept clean by removing any unwanted accumulation and disposing of it properly.

Description of Facility

Below, or as an attachment to this form, provide a description of the concrete batching plant operations at the facility in sufficient detail to demonstrate the facility's eligibility for use of this air general permit and to provide a basis for tracking any future equipment or process changes at the facility. Describe all air pollutant-emitting processes and equipment at the facility, and identify any air pollution control measures or equipment used.

Materials are conveyed to their designated storage area (stock piles, silos, etc...) after they have been delivered. The process starts by combining sand and cement via conveyer from their silos and/or stock piles, as well as various chemicals, into a mixer. The materials mix for a specified period of time. The final product then gets poured into individual bags.

Attached is a list of the air emission processes and the equipment used to control the emissions.

CONCRETE BATCHING PLANTS

Air General Permit Example Registration Worksheet

The Department of Environmental Protection has established an "air general permit" at Florida Administrative Code ("F.A.C.") Rule 62-210.310(5)(b) for concrete batching plant. An air general permit is an authorization by rule to construct or operate a specific type of air pollutant emitting facility. Use of such authorization by any individual facility does not require action by the Department. The terms and conditions of the air general permit are set forth in the rule, rather than in a separately issued air construction or air operation permit.

If you are the owner or operator of an eligible facility comprising one or more concrete batching plants, you may register to use the air general permit at Rule 62-210.310(5)(b), F.A.C., by following the general procedures given at subsections 62-210.310(2) and 62-210.310 (3), F.A.C. To register, use the Department's electronic registration system (currently under development) or submit all the information specified in the above rules to either of the following addresses, along with the air general permit registration processing fee ($100.00), payable to FDEP.

If you properly register to use an air general permit, and are not denied use of the air general permit by the Department, you are authorized to construct and operate the facility in accordance with the general terms and conditions of Rule 62-210.310, F.A.C., and the specific terms and conditions of Rule 62-210.310(5)(b), F.A.C. Your facility may vary, so be sure your registration describes the operations at your facility in sufficient detail to demonstrate the facility's eligibility for use of the air general permit and to provide a basis for tracking any future equipment or process changes. Your registration should describe all air pollutant-emitting processes and equipment at the facility, and it should identify any air pollution control measures or equipment used.

The rules do not require any specific format for the registration. This worksheet, however, has been designed to assist owners and operators. Using it as a template for a general permit registration will help ensure that all necessary information is submitted.

Additional information can be found on the Department's air general permit program website (http://www.floridadep.org/air/emission/air_gp.htm) or by calling the Small Business Environmental Assistance Program Hotline at 1-800-SBAP-HLP (1-800-722-7457).
