FYI.

See my response to reporter.

Dee Ann. Julie is out.

What is best name to give inquiring reporters who may call regarding the Port St. Joe Biomass Project (Northwest Florida Renewable Energy Center).

Odds are 50/50 that we will see another application for that project.

Thanks.

Al.

Dear Mr. Croft:

I am contacting you from my home since I am not at work due to a cold.

Definitely no application has been filed.

The consultant on this project left word today that he has been contacted regarding a possible resubmittal of an application for what appears to be essentially the same project.

I have no further details.

Please interact directly with our press office at 850-245-2112 on your inquiries and they will contact us for assistance or inclusion as needed.

Thank you.

Al Linero.

Mr. Read,

I am asking because during their last regular meeting, county commissioners were asked for a letter of support for the project. Maybe the company is organizing paperwork before filing. I just wanted to check because I did not see any indication it had been refiled.

Thank you very much for your assistance.

Mr. Read,

It is my understanding that an air emissions permit application for the proposed Renewable Energy Center in Port St. Joe has been filed again after the previous one was withdrawn.

What it be possible for you to confirm if that is the case and what link might be available to follow the process, as was posted for the original air emissions and stormwater permit for this facility?

Thank you in advance for your assistance in this matter.

Sincerely,

Tim Croft
