The attached letter serves as a follow up to our discussion on January 26, 2011 regarding the above-referenced facilities. Specifically, we had discussed the current situation regarding the expiration of the air construction permit for each facility, although the current Title V (TV) permits, which were revised to include the new proposed combustion turbines (CTs) under construction, are still in effect and have the exact same compliance language as the construction permit. Specifically, Cutrale has been undertaking continuous construction activity and has been complying with the conditions of the expired construction permits, essentially by meeting the requirements in each currently effective TV permit. Per our discussion, this letter serves to summarize the series of events since issuance of the construction permits and request that the expiration dates of the construction permits be extended to coincide with the anticipated timeframe envisioned for issuance of revised TV permits to reflect post-construction operation.
