Bruce,

Per our conversation and email correspondence, if the Final Air Construction Permit reflects the one requested change on the SO2 CEMS installation schedule from 180 days to 12 months, then, no, I do not plan on appealing that change.

Thank you for accepting our requested CEMS installation schedule and working with me on this BART exemption.

Good afternoon, Rachel. We have agreed to make the requested change on the deadline to install and certify the SO₂ continuous emissions monitoring system from "180 days" to "12-months" in Specific Condition No. 5, line 4, of the Draft Air Construction Permit. If we make the change in the Final Air Construction Permit, are you planning to appeal that change?

Subject: Comments on Draft Permit 0890003-018-AC

Hi Bruce,

Per our conversation, the only comment I had on this permit was the length of time required to install an SO2 CEMS. Please change Compliance Monitoring Condition 5 requiring the CEMS installation and certification to be within one year of permit issuance. If you can commit to make that change, I'll go ahead and publish the draft permit in the newspaper ASAP.

Thank you,
