AJ,

I spoke with Dave this evening.

He is going to check to see if the plant is now in full compliance with the permit and settlement agreement.

He was unsure about the 12-month CO standards.

If the plant is not yet in compliance, he will submit a "Compliance Plan" for the few remaining items.

If the plant is now in full compliance, he will submit the R.O. certification statement so I can finish up a revised draft permit.

The plant will likely request a revision to the opacity standards for the cogeneration boilers. I plan to call this a separate project when it comes in. The facility should submit this request as a combined AC/AV revision. If we get to the bottom line quickly on the change, I can combine it with the revised draft renewal permit. Nevertheless, I don't want it to hold up the renewal.

As we discussed, let me know whether the SD office considers the facility to be in compliance with the permit and settlement agreement.

Thanks!
